CIVIC AUTOMATION SYSTEMS

Innovative, cutting-edge home automation systems are like having a live-in housekeeper on duty 24/7, 365 days a year, offering you the luxury of a house that thinks for itself. The geyser will automatically switch off when required to save electricity and the system will sms you if your electricity cuts out, which enables you to take the swiftest and safest action possible in an emergency. Home automation is a form of artificial intelligence designed to work for you, allowing you to truly enjoy your home.

We all search for peace of mind; and security, simplicity and savings are words you want to hear. For these reasons home automation is the lifestyle of the future as it enables you to control your home in ways you never thought possible. Bringing your home into the 21st Century has never been this easy.

Civic Automation Systems specialises in wired and wireless systems. Should you want to automate your living area and patio, a wireless system is what you need. After that you can automate the rest of your property over time as funds allow. Want to automate your existing traditionally wired property? Civic can design an automation system to suit your individual needs.

Looking at building a new home and want to have full Home Automation of the entire property? Then a fully wired system is what you will need. This will give you total control of your biggest investment. Specialised services are offered on Lighting design, Ceiling/Bulkhead design and centralized audio/video systems.

HOMEMATION

Homemation's product range gives your house cutting-edge technology at the touch of a button. We believe that the enjoyment of music and videos should not be restricted to just one room. Wouldn't it be nice to have access to all your music and movies whenever you want and wherever you are in your home?

Instead of battling with a clutter of remotes, enjoy the simplicity of one-touch control for all your home entertainment devices through one powerful controller. Breathtaking image and audio quality can be enjoyed from the comfort of your own home with Arcam's home theater equipment, coupled with Monitor Audio's spectacular range of speakers.

Watching a DVD is transformed into a sensory treat, immersing you into its world with images and audio so lifelike that one cannot help but have the emotional response the director sets out to create.

Homemation has products ranging from security and lighting to air-conditioning and audio-visual equipment. We have qualified engineers, dealers and installers nationally who ensure that all our solutions surpass the requirements and expectations of our clients.
